Helping you to achieve your resistance workouts, the Supaflex Resistance X-Tube can be used for a wide range of exercises and thanks to new features, is a quality fitness accessory. This Level 2, Intermediate X-Tubing from Supaflex comes with foam handles and a protector sheath that covers the elastic tubing. This helps to prevent normal wear and tear on the tube giving it even more longevity.

With a simple colour coding system to help you tell your intermediate from your advanced tubing, Supaflex have created a superb set of resistance tubes that are perfect for the home environment. This is a very cost-effective piece of fitness equipment that provides variation and flexibility to your workouts.

Description

Level 2 - Supaflex Resistance Tube

In a home gym, space can be an issue. A resistance workout using the Supaflex X-Tubing could therefore be a great alternative to lots of free weights and kettlebells. With hundreds of possible exercises to virtually ever muscle group, whether it's biceps, lats or lower back, the Level 2 Intermediate Supaflex X-Tube is a cost-effective and quality piece of equipment.

Supaflex have created the X-Tube with foam grip handles to help you keep a strong and firm grip, even when you get sweaty. In addition, resistance tubes often get nicks and tears along their length just from getting snagged. The Supaflex X-Tubes come with a 60cm long outer cover to protect the tube. Supaflex have chosen a colour coding system to help you see which resistance tube is which - great if you buy a few to cover small to large muscles for workouts.

GymEquipment.co.uk choose to stock this resistance tube due to it's popularity for home gyms as well as it's value for money.
